Introduction

All children and young people should have the opportunity to enjoy and develop during their childhood, making a successful transition into adult life.

It is vitally important that schools, organisations and wider communities create a safe and supportive environment for young people where they feel respected and where prejudices are challenged. Homophobic, biphobic and transphobic (HBT) bullying has a significant impact on the wellbeing, attendance and attainment of many lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans young people, and those questioning their sexual orientation or gender identity (LGBTQ). Since September 2013, Ofsted inspections explore the school's actions to undertake and tackle HBT bullying.

Our aim is to provide LGBTQ young people a safe environment where they can reach their full potential; creating communities where diversity is celebrated and difference is accepted. We all have a responsibility to tackle and prevent all sexuality and gender identity based bullying and discrimination.

Who we are and what we do

The Positive Identities Service offers sexual orientation and gender identity expertise through the provision of training, consultancy and direct work interventions. We offer services to schools, organisations and wider communities so that they can provide safe spaces for LGBTQ staff, volunteers and service users.

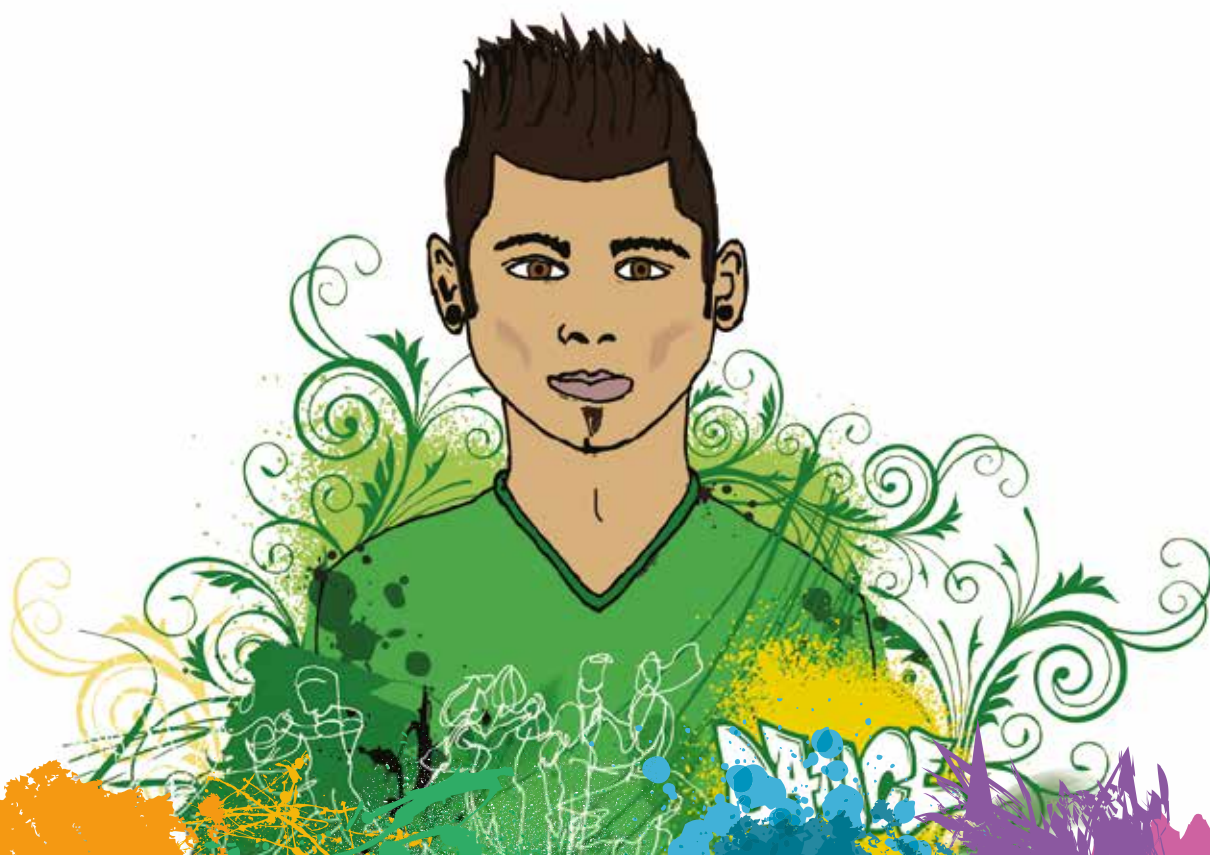

We have developed a range of services that can be commissioned including:

- Our toolkit addresses issues relating to faith and culture to prevent and tackle HBT bullying
- A two tiered professional membership network – ‘Barnardo’s LGBTQ Allies Network’ which empowers schools and organisations to champion the needs of LGBTQ young people, adults and families. A baseline assessment and action plan is completed to offer a tailored package of training, consultancy and support to address the need identified. Our aim is to increase the confidence of member organisations by providing a network that increases skills, knowledge and experience of LGBTQ issues and needs and effectively meeting these. The membership is open to schools, colleges, statutory and voluntary organisations, youth groups, sports clubs, faith organisations, statutory departments and local authorities.
